

The Greater Vancouver Sewerage and Drainage District (GVS&DD) established a cost charge to assist the regional corporation in paying capital costs incurred to provide, construct, alter or expand Sewerage Facilities to service development. This cost charge is being collected by the City of Burnaby on behalf of the GVS&DD and has been in effect since 1997 January 01.

This charge applies to all new building developments including additions and development potential through subdivisions, rezoning, preliminary plan approval and building permit applications. The charge applies to applications where additional lots, units and/or square footage is created. Church developments, applications solely for facade changes, and interior alteration applications for a previously approved use are exempted.

The charge deposits will be collected in conjunction with Subdivision, Rezoning, Preliminary Plan Approval and/or Building Permit applications (issued to create additional dwelling units). The charge amount varies by use and by location. Please see the table below and map on reverse for more information. A larger scale map providing clearer boundary details can be viewed at the City Planning Department counter.

For further explanation or clarification of the charge, please contact: Financial Services, Metro Vancouver, Metrotower III, 4515 Central Boulevard, Burnaby, BC V5H 0C6.

The charge is established in line with the following:
